proper season, unless it is duly planted out, unless it has sufficient water and sufficient sunshine, it cannot exist. All these are in one sense causes, but they are secondary causes, all of which combined are powerless without the first essential, the provision of the seed. Yet the seed itself will come to nothing unless it meets with the secondary causes named. If sown on dry ground it withers away, if exposed to excess of water it rots, and so on, so that we require not only a seed as a condition sine qua non, but a host of other causes to bring this seed to its culmination of bearing fruit an hundredfold. This analogy applies exactly to the development of a large number of diseases. They depend on a specific cause, which may be compared to a seed; but this cannot grow unless the conditions of its environment are such as to furnish a soil in which it can flourish. In many cases, such as anthrax, tuberculosis, splenic fever, erysipelas, &c., this seed or germ has been isolated and demonstrated. In others, such as enteric fever, cholera, leprosy, and tetanus, the evidence, though sufficient to satisfy many, cannot as yet be said to have been completely accepted by the profession. In others, again, the specific cause has not yet been demonstrated; yet there is no doubt whatever that it exists. Take small-pox for instance. Everybody knows that a drop of matter from a small-pox postule will give small-pox if inoculated under the skin of an unprotected person. A drop of ordinary pus will have no such effect. Yet the specific pus of small-pox cannot be distinguished chemically, microscopically, or bacteriologically from ordinary pus. Measles, typhus fever, and other so-called zymotic diseases are all due to specific causes which have not yet been isolated. The plague is another, and it is now announced that Dr. Kitasato of Japan has specified in isolating its havilles of Handley and Management of Japan has specified in isolating its havilles. of Japan has succeeded in isolating its bacillus at Hongkong. None of these diseases can originate de novo. If the seed is not there, no amount of favourable secondary causes will produce them. Measles was unknown in the Fiji Islands till introduced by an imported case, when 20,000 persons perished.

8. It is now generally accepted by the medical profession that malaria is due to a specific cause, though some are not prepared to admit that it has as yet been demonstrated. The researches, however, of Laveran in Algeria, Marchiafava and Celli in Rome, Patrick Manson in China and elsewhere, Vandyke Carter in Bombay, Olser in Baltimore, Kaufmann at Ismalia and Cairo, Crombie in Calcutta, Councilman and others go to show that it is due to a specific bacillus (or rather plasmodium) present in the blood corpuscles. Whether this be true or not,—and bacteriology, though the latest of the medical sciences, is already so encyclopedic that medical men engaged in active practice have to accept or reject the conclusions of bacteriologists to a large extent on trust,—the consensus of medical opinion is, as I have stated, that malaria is due to some specific cause, and that in the absence of that cause neither poverty, nor exposure, nor chill, nor dampness from deficient drainage will produce it. Given the germ, however, all these act as powerful secondary causes in promoting its growth and extension.

9. We know that poor, badly kept seed will produce a poor crop; wellselected and carefully kept seed a good crop. We know also that the inherent activity of the seeds of disease may be lessened or increased under certain conditions, and this has no doubt a distinct, though ill-defined, relation to the varying severity of epidemics. We know also that as the ultimate result of a field sown with good seed depends on the many secondary conditions already alluded to, so the result of the implantation of the seeds of disease will depend entirely on the conditions they meet with. If they find a congenial soil, they will flourish, the result being an epidemic; if they find no such soil, they also will wither away.

10. There can be no manner of doubt that one of the most favourable conditions for intensifying the malarial germ (whatever it may be) is a marshy and water-logged soil. But it is now generally recognised that such a soil will not generate fever unless the specific cause is there, and this accounts for the absence of fever in many such places. There is also no manner of doubt that when fever prevails in such localities, thorough drainage is the only efficient remedy. England affords an excellent illustration of both these points. In the days of the Tudors ague was prevalent all over the country, then sparsely peopled and cultivated, but especially so in the eastern counties, which are very flat, marshy, and water-logged. With increased cultivation and improved drainage ague gradually disappeared, except from the eastern counties, which were not thoroughly drained till the present century. The disease has now, however, all but disappeared, and only lingers here and the second t here and there in a few marshy places which have not been affected by the drainage operations. In 1809 a British army practically disappeared under the deadly influence of malaria in the marshes of Walchern. These marshes have now been drained, and fever is nearly unknown. In the early days of the settlement of the Carolinas malarial fevers were very prevalent and deadly, especially in the belt of rice growing country near the coast. As population and cultivation increased fevers diminished; but since the abolition of slavery after the war of 1861-64, large tracts of land have gone out of cultivation for want of labour, drainage has become obstructed, and fevers have again become common. I have seen large tracts which were once flourishing plantations reduced to sodden marsh, in which white men could no longer live.

11. These cases seem a sufficient reply to the question of the Hindu Patriot of 26th July 1894:—"Is there any one who is prepared to say that the connection between obstructed drainage and malaria has been conclusively established yet?" Indeed, the Hindu Patriot itself was for a long time the chief exponent of the theory that the one essential cause of malaria was obstructed drainage. In its issue of 19th December 1873, for instance, it says :-

"This big drain [in Sibpur] cannot possibly fail to strike any man as being the drainage channel of the village, carrying the periodical monsoon rainfall over the village through a culvert in the road to its outfall, the Hooghly, by means of a creek which runs along the southern boundary of the Botanic Gardens. This drain, as already observed, was filled up between April and June last, and the epidemic fever—true to the law which governs it, as we have repeatedly shown in these columns—broke out at the latter end of September following. We are aware that it is hard for our rulers, learned in the abstruse laws of nature, to swallow such a simple cause as this, explaining so important a phenomenon, which has for the last 14 years eluded the grasp of its own scientific officers. But whether our lamentations are heard or not, the very expression of them gives relief to our minds, and this is one excuse for heard or not, the very expression of them gives relief to our minds, and this is one excuse for recurring so often to the subject."

12. Several other papers at that time took the same view, which was very strongly held by the late Raja Digamber Mitter, c.s.i., and in consequence of their representations a Committee, of which Dr. Lethbridge was President, and Mr. J. Whitfield, c.e., Executive Engineer, Assistant Surgeon Amrito Lal Mozamdar, Babu Piari Mohan Mukerji, and Deputy Collector Hem Chandra Kur, members, was appointed. Their instructions were (Bengal Government, Sanitation No. 1628, dated 29th May 1877) "to examine Sibpur, Bally, and Connector the places mentioned in Reich Dicamber's memorandom. Bally, and Connagar, the places mentioned in Rajah Digambar's memorandum, and see if they can find from their investigations there where there are any grounds for continuing the enquiry."

After a careful enquiry, which include a systematic survey

"by a competent overseer of the Public Works Department," they arrived at the conclusion that as regards Sibpur

"it is physically impossible that the filling up of the Chowdhry's gurh can have caused any obstruction to the drainage" (paragraph 8).

As regards Bally they found that-"There has been no obstruction, nor is it possible that there could be any" (paragraph 18).

And again-

"Every statement made regarding Bally having been found to be incorrect, it was considered unnecessary to make any enquiry into the prevalence of fever" (paragraph 23).

As regards Connagar they say-

"Since the main roads of the village run parallel to the drainage channels, no serious ructions can be caused " and " except in a few minor instances obstructions can be caused no such obstruction existed" (paragraph 26).

Again-

- "Although there may have been some obstruction caused by the bund, it is physically impossible, from the nature of the ground, that it could have been to any great extent (paragraph 36).
- 13. It will thus be seen that the Committee do not say that obstructed drainage is not the cause of fever, but that in the particular instances which they were commissioned to examine, the drainage had not been obstructed, a very different thing. Indeed, in paragraph 2 they say:—"We are not prepared very different thing. Indeed, in paragraph 2 they say:—"We are not prepared to say that increased dampness is not one of the causes of the fever." *

* "There is a popular idea that there is increased dampness in the villages around Calcutta."

14. That Dr. Lethbridge was of a totally different opinion to that now attributed to him is shown by the following extract from his No. 594M.I., dated 15th May 1877, when he was Officiating Sanitary Commissioner for Beneral.

"It was shown by the Commission of 1864 that the fever then prevailing was of malarious origin, and that the chief factor in its development was dampness of the subsoil. With one or two exceptions all subsequent enquirers (and there have been many) are of the same opinion, and for all practical purposes these two points are now established. It is when same opinion, and for all practical purposes these two points are now established. It is when we come to account for the unasual dampness that we find a very considerable difference of

"While I refrain from discussing the question here. I ought to mention that I cannot altogether accept Rajah Digambar Mitter's view of the dampness of the village subsoil itself being the sole and only cause of the fever, or that this has altogether been brought about by roads and railways, yet I am so profoundly impressed with the evidence that goes to show that long continued dampness at a time of the year when the soil ought to be rapidly drained of its excess of moisture is the chief cause of unhealthiness, that I accept the Rajah's recommendations for facilitating the drainage of villages as being worthy of serious consideration."

15. Yet Dr. Lethbridge is now claimed as holding the opinion that poverty and not obstructed drainage, is the chief cause of fever, and the report of his Committee, which was severely criticised at the time, is held to take the same view. Yet poverty is not so much as mentioned in the report unless "the poor condition of the people," mentioned by Dr. Greene (paragraph 31) refers to poverty; I believe it refers to physique. This one statement of Dr. Greene's is used by the Hindu Patriot to make him also an upholder of the causation-bypoverty theory, whereas he was one of the strongest up-holders of the causation-by-obstructed drainage theory.

16. Poverty is to fever what sunshine or rainfall or proper tillage is to the hypothetical rice-field; that is a purely secondary cause. It cannot of itself the hypothetical rice-held; that is a purely secondary cause. It cannot of itself—though carried to starvation point—produce an ague, unless the ague seed is there. That by diminishing vital stamina, and the power of resistance to disease, it renders the poor much more obnoxious to the attacks of fever and much more likely to die of it, is admitted by all. Eliminate poverty, so that people can be well fed, well clothed, well housed; their power of resisting malaria will be immensely increased: eliminate malaria, their powers of work will be increased and poverty more or less eliminated. The two things act and react on each other, the poverty making them more liable to fever the fever react on each other, the poverty making them more liable to fever, the fever diminishing their wage earning power. The poperty cannot be got rid of by diminishing their wage earning power. legislative action, the malaria can.

Much stress is laid on the opinion of Colonel Haig and Dr. Saunders as to poverty, and not obstructed drainage, being the cause of the prevalence of fever; but the opinions of both officers really amount to no more than the admitted fact just stated. Colonel Haig's words are—

"The excessive mortality must be due to the failing stamina of the people generally, to a degeneration and loss of vital energy which render them less capable of resisting the morbific influences to which they have always been exposed."

"Ascertained by actual personal enquiry • • that their means of subsistence were wholly inadequate to maintain them in such a hygienic condition as to enable them to successfully resist the existing causes of disease."

The italics are again mine. I entirely agree with the opinions of both officers, so does His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, so I venture to say does every medical man. But the fact that poverty intensifies the action of malaria is no proof that it can cause it. Every country has many poor, many countries have no malaria.

17. It is clear then that, so far as Dr. Lethbridge and his Committee, Dr. Greene, Colonel Haig, and Dr. Saunders are concerned, their opinions have no validity as arguments against the Sanitary Drainage Bill, and that they have in fact been given an interpretation which they do not warrant. I have been unable to trace Dr. Lyons' or his opinion, he is probably Surgeon Major Lyons of the 28th and 17th N. I., who retired in 1886.

18. Obstructed drainage is at best only a secondary cause of malaria, and could cause no fever unless the germs were there. It merely acts, when it acts, by providing a suitable nidus in which these germs can flourish; but it acts in this way so frequently, and the course. it acts in this way so frequently, and the germs are, so widely distributed in certain countries, that in popular language it is said to be the cause, and the expression is legitimate enough. No one except the late Rajah Digambar Mitter and the Hindu Patriot of the time of Dr. Lethbridge's Committee, asserts that it is the sole cause of malaria.

In the instructions to Dr. Lethbridge for the guidance of his Committee, drawn up by Mr. H. J. S. Cotton, this fact is very clearly brought out-

"The Rajah maintains that by the construction of roads and embankments the natural drainage of the country has been obstructed, and that this is the sole and only cause of the fever. But it has been demonstrated again and again that the fever has prevailed in villages and in parts of the country with which roads and railways can have had no possible concern. On the other hand it has frequently been shown that the Rajah is right to a very great extent and that artificial obstructions have an analysis of constraints. great extent, and that artificial obstructions have on many cases occasioned and have in others aggravated the outbreak of fever" (paragraph 2).

"There is little doubt that the epidemic fever is of malarious origin, and that while the chief factor in its development is unusual dampness in the subsoil, this dampness is created by defective drainage. The Lieutenant-Governor observes that while accepting this view by defective drainage. you confine yourself in your letter to recommending action in the direction of increased and improved drainage. If the Committee, you write, while enquiring into the cause of the excessive dampiness could at the same time excessive dampiness could at the same time excessive dampiness. excessive dampness could at the same time suggest reasonable means for removing it by utilising the natural drainage of the country, they would, even if they failed to elucidate the cause, confer great benefits to the people, and you go on to say that you would gladly see the services of the Committee utilised in the organisation of a general drainage scheme." (paragraph 3).

In the face of this statement it is hard to see how Dr. Lethbridge can be cited as a witnness against the present Bill. His opinions have been perfectly consistent throughout, and his Committee, while disproving the existence of particular alleged obtructions, expressly reserved themselves against such use as is now being made of their report, by saying that increased dampness might be a cause of the fever, and that opinion was in favour of the fact that dampness had increased.

20. A very excellent illustration of excessive development of fever clearly due to obstructed drainage is given in the report of the Sanitary Commissioner,

Bengal, for 1877, pages 6 and 7:-

"The district of Dinajpur has long had an unenviable reputation for unhealthiness and almost entirely by fever. * * When fifteen out of seventeen adult Europeans caused almost entirely by fever. * * * When fifteen out of seventeen adult Europeans had to leave the station in a single year, broken by repeated attacks of fever, and official business could hardly be carried on, a Committee was appointed by Government to report on the causes of this great unhealthiness and suggest means for improving the station.

"The investigations of the Committee brought out the following facts:—A terrible constant sighness and a very high death-rate. An examination of nearly 1,000

"The investigations of the Committee brought out the following facts:—A terrible amount of constant sickness and a very high death-rate. An examination of nearly 1,000 individuals shows that 74.45 per cent. of the inhabitants of all classes were in shattered health, while 53 per cent. had marked enlargement of the spleen. Great pains have been bestowed on registration, and the district was declared by Dr. Coates in last year's Sanitary Report to be the best registered in Bengal. Deaths of infants often escape registration, however, and so far the total deaths registered are short of the actual mortality. It was found, however, that the registered death-rate of the Municipality was 42 per 1,000, nearly double the death-rate of London, while the police died at the rate of 46 and the prisoners in jail at 74.6 per 1,000 per annum. The Municipality lies between a river and a smaller stream, which, after receiving a large part of the town drainage, falls into the former below the town. The river rises in some extensive marshes to the north and brings down in the rains large quantities of decomposing vegetable débris. The smaller stream receives the accumulated surface washings and much of the sewage of the town. It is partly silted up, and, except during the rains, is little more than a succession of detached pools of foul water. During the heavy floods of the rainy season it is swollen to a large size, but the water is prevented from running off by the river floods, which not only head it up and cause it to inundate the town and station, but themselves pour up the stream, bringing large quantities of the vegetable matter abovementioned. The result is temporary stagnation, the deposit of large quantities of foul matter, and the general sturation of the soil. The flood gradually subsides, leaving a slimy and indescribably offensive deposit behind it; and this process is renewed perhaps three or four times in the season, the waters abburg The flood gradually subsides, leaving a slimy and indescribably offensive deposit behind it; and this process is renewed perhaps three or four times in the season, the waters ebbing and flowing and stagnating and depositing their filth. The scream in question has always been considered the chief cause of the unhealthiness of the town. Two years ago an attempt was made to divert the greater part of its water into a dead river to the east and to keep out the river floods. For this purpose three or four dams were made, the largest across the junction of the stream and river below the town. Exceptionally high floods, however, overtopped the dam; the others were also inefficient; and the only effect of the operations intended to improve the drainage was to retain the flood waters unusually long and cause greater scakage than ever. This was aggravated by an exceptionally heavy and ill-distributed rainfall, and followed on the subsidence of the floods by an all but universal development of fever, very few persons escaping. The evidence that the prevalance of fever and the amount of rainfall and flooding are directly connected was further strengthened when it was found that a large decrease in the registered mortality in 1875 as compared with 1874 (great attention having been paid to registration in both years) was coincident with a rainfall much below the average, and shorter and less widespread floods; and still more so by the fact that the diminished sickness of that year was confined to the native town, while the European residents living south of the town, near the junction of the two streams, and exposed to the partial floods which did occur, were as unhealthy as usual."

21. The Committee recommended a number of general sanitary reforms, such as improved conservancy, better means of disposing of the dead, &c., but their main reliance for the improvement of the public health was a new drainage scheme by which the river was completely dammed up, and the waters of the small stream with the town drainage carried by a new cut seven miles lower down the river. The project was put in hand shortly afterwards, and was practically completed in 1879. I am informed by Mr. Nolan, Commissioner of the Division, that the results have been excellent on the whole, and that the general health has greatly improved.

Another most interesting illustration of the effect of obstructed drainage from the silting up of rivers in producing epidemic fever is given at pages 57 and 58 of the same report, by Dr. Crombie, of Dacca, but need not be noticed in detail, since the instances already given suffice and the fact is notorious.

- 22. To recapitulate briefly, this memorandum claims to prove-
 - (1) that malaria is due to a specific cause—the plasmodium of Laveran;
 - (2) that without the presence of the specific cause no insanitary conditions, poverty or obstructed drainage, can originate malaria;
 - (3) that given its presence all insanitary conditions, poverty, &c., make people more obnoxious to its attacks by diminishing their vital powers of resistance;
 - (4) that a damp and water-logged soil, whether from defective or obstructed drainage, forms a most favourable nidus for the development and intensification of the germ;
 - (5) that this can be remedied by drainage;
 - (6) that there is no real difference of opinion among medical men on the above points; and
 - (7) that the opinions of the medical men and others, who have been cited by the opponents of the Bill as witnesses against it, do not bear the interpretation put on them, and are really arguments in favour of the Bill.
- 23. I have limited myself to the main issue, and will only say regarding the contention that a good water supply is much more essential than any drainage scheme; that both are most desirable, and that when both are needed, but money is only available for one, each case must be decided on its merits. In the case of Dinajpur, drainage was emphatically the one thing needful, and I might say that in many sodden and water-logged soils a good water-supply is impossible without preliminary drainage.
- 24. I have submitted this note for criticism to a number of medical officers serving in Bengal, and append their remarks. They agree in the main with the conclusions above expressed. I also append some interesting details as to the past and present history of malarial fever in Walcheren and in America, referred to in paragraph 10.

APPENDIX A.

OPINIONS OF MEDICAL OFFICERS.

BDE.-SURG.-LIEUT.-COL. H. PURVES, Civil Surgeon, Howrah.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge receipt of your No. 7244 of the 20th instant, with printed paper, dated the 17th idem, in regard to the question of the causation of malaria.

In reply, I beg to state that I quite agree with you that poverty has nothing to do with the origin of malaria; it may follow as the result of such fever, but is certainly not the cause. "Maclean" defines malaria as "an earthborn poison generated in soils, the energies of which are not expended on the growth and sustenance of healthy vegetation," and adds that "by almost universal consent this poison is the cause of all the types of intermittent and remittent fevers commonly called malarial."

In my own experience I have found that the malarial poison is no respecter of persons; it attacks rich and poor, young and old, strong and weak.

Had poverty anything to do with the genesis of malaria, we would expect to find cases of ague and enlarged spleen common in all tracts where famine prevailed and in the slums of towns where poverty is rife, independently of whether the surrounding country was malarious or not, but such is not found to be the case.

BDE.-SURGN.-LIEUT.-COL. D. D. CUNNINGHAM, M.B., F.R.S., C.I.E., Professor of Physiology, Medical College, Calcutta.

In reply to your No. 7237, dated 20th August 1894, I have the honour to state that I entirely concur with you in holding that malarial fevers must be due to some specific cause, and that the idea that poverty is capable of acting as such arises from confounding coincidences with causes.

Surgn.-Lieut.-Col. J. F. P. McConnell, M.D., F.R.C.P., Professor of Materia Medica.

WITH reference to your No. 7236 of the 20th instant, and enclosures, I have the honour to state that I concur entirely with the remarks you have made on the relation of malaria to drainage, and that your memorandum on the subject is so complete and concise that any further observation from myself would, I consider, be quite superfluous.

SURGN.-LIEUT.-Col. A. CROMBIB, M.D., Superintendent, Presidency General Hospital.

I ENTIRELY agree with Dr. Harvey in the opinions expressed in the accompanying memorandum with regard to the effective cause of malaria and the relation which poverty, obstructed drainage, and water-logging of the soil bear to its manifestation. I have satisfied myself that the plasmodium (more properly amoeba) of Laveran is the essential organism giving rise to every case of malarial fever, that the different forms of malarial fever, quotidian, tertian and quartan, are each due to a different variety of the malarial amoeba, and that these varieties are identical with those occurring in Europe, and can be distinguished from each other under the miscroscope by characteristic differences which are the same for each variety in Bengal and in Europe. Poverty may certainly increase the liability of the population of a malarious district, that is, a district the conditions of which are favourable to the growth and multiplication of the malarial organism, to attacks of malarial fever, but will not in itself and by itself and in the absence of the malarial amoeba give rise to a single case of illness of that nature. The disease which follows on the tracks of poverty—and is almost an essential sequel of poverty and starvation—is not malarial but relapsing fever, a fever which has been found by Vandyke Carter and others to be also due to a bacteriological organism entirely different from that of malaria, being a spirillum, and not an amoeba.

I have little to add to what Dr. Harvey says on the subject of obstructed drainage. I think there can be little doubt but that in certain very limited areas in Bengal, in the immediate price beauty and the subject of obstructed drainage.

I think there can be little donbt but that in certain very limited areas in Bengal, in the immediate neighbourhood of railways especially, considerable interference with natural surface drainage has been caused by public works of these kinds. But their influence can only be of the smallest extent, and could be remedied by increasing the number of culverts and waterways. But the malarial condition of the country at large, in so far as it is induced by increased dampness of the soil, is related to causes acting in a much larger way, and especially by the inevitable silting of rivers and consequent water-logging the soil generally. I saw unquestionable evidences of this in Eastern Bengal, where there were no public works of this kind. How far it will be possible to deal with these larger causes under the Bill is a question which I am not called upon to discuss. The giving of a good water-supply may often be feasible when a large drainage scheme is inadmissible; but so long as the state of the soil is such as to favour the life of the malarial organism, drainage will always be essential to the health of the people as the only known means of getting rid of these conditions.

SURGN.-LAEUT.-Col. E. G. RUSSELL, M.B., B.SC., Civil Surgeon of Dacca.

Letter dated the 17th August 1894, from the Inspector-General of Civil Hos-pitals, Bengal, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department.

In reply to your No. 7238 of 20th instant, giving cover to marginally noted document, I have the honour to intimate that I entirely concur in the remarks made in the document referred to.

SURGN.-LIEUT.-COL. GORDON PRICE, M.D., Offg. Civil Surgeon of Murshidabad.

WITH reference to your No. 7245, dated the 20th instant, I have the honour to state that I entirely concur with the remarks made in your letter to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal dated the 17th of August 1894.

SURGEON-MAJOR G. BOMFORD, M.D., Principal, Medical College.

In reply to your docket No. 7241, dated the 20th of August, in which you ask for my opinion on the subject of sanitary drainage, I have the honour to offer the following observations.

Taking the propositions laid down in paragraph 22 of your letter to the Government in order, I may say that-

(1) I agree that malaria is due to a specific cause, though I am not prepared to accept the plasmodium of Laveran or any of the other appearances described by other writers as that cause. On the other hand, I do not think that there is sufficient proof that the great mortality

that occurs in certian districts and in certain years is always the result of malaria.

(2) I agree that malaria is not the result of poverty, and as evidence of this I would instance my own experience in the North Arcot district of Madras in 1877-78, where there was an almost incredible degree of poverty, but very little malaria. On the other hand, malaria is undoubtedly a cause of poverty, by bringing about a condition of chronic ill-health; and poverty in its turn, from whatever cause it may arise, brings about a great increase in the mortality, and may have more to do with the excessive mortality in certain years than malaria. If it could be shown that the Drainage Bill is likely to still further impoverish the lower streets of the people, people would. I presume, advocate its adoption.

strata of the people, nobody would, I presume, advocate its adoption.

(3) About the third proposition I am doubtful, as I do not think that there is any sufficient evidence that malarial disease is influenced in any way by ordinary sanitary measures apart from those which may be supposed to act directly upon the cause of malaria. Malaria does not seem to be a consequence of ordinary filth; on the contrary in dirty places, in cities for instance, malaria seems to be rather crowded out, and it is in jungles, which, apart from malaria, are not insanitary places, that we find it in its worst forms. In places where malaria is rife we do not find that the rich man with his filters and other sanitary precautions has a much greater immunity from attack than his poorer brethern, who can take no particular precautions.

(4) There is evidence that irrigated land has a high fever mortality, whatever this "fever mortality" may really be,—vide on this point the report of the Sanitary Commissioner of the North-Western Provinces for 1887, and also that the mortality from fevers in any particular district of the North-Western Provinces varies as a rule directly as the rainfall. On the other hand, the Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal was forced to admit in his report for 1891 that fever had been unusually prevalent in a year of deficient rainfall, and his explanation of this apparent paradox has some bearing on the present enquiry, because it raises the nation of this apparent paradox has some bearing on the present enquiry, because it raises the question whether

(5) Drainage might not, under certain circumstances, actually increase the mortality. If by drainage we bring about the condition described by him as the result of deficient rainfall, it might do harm instead of good. Supposing that malaria acts rather by impoverishing and enfeebling the people and is not so much a direct cause of mortality, and for this view there is considerable evidence in what we see every day in our hospitals, then the immediate effect of drainage might be to bring about conditions which would act adversely upon the already impoverished and enfeebled people, although eventually it might by checking malaria improve the general health, and so enable a new generation of people to withstand the evil effects of both floods and droughts.

(6) I do not think that there is any real difference among medical men on these matters, but few have made a special study of these questions and know how complicated they are, especially in India.

(7) To be sure that the letter really expresses the views of the medical officers mentioned, one would have to see their statements in full, and to understand the circumstances under which they were made. The Lyons referred to is probably Surgeon Major Lyons of the Bengal Medical Service, who retired about 1886, and who used to write a good deal in the medical papers in the earlier years of his service.

In conclusion I would suggest that it would be well to ascertain the result of drainage experiments in other provinces, and then to begin by making cautious experiments in Bengal in places where the general health is known to have deteriorated since the closing of natural channels. Places that have been always water-logged should be left alone, at least until the success of these first experiments is assured. This is what I understand the Government intends to do, and all I would say is that they must not be surprised if such drainage experiments do not appear to have such good results as they anticipate. SURGEON-MAJOR J. B. GIBBONS, Superintendent, Campbell Medical School and Hospital.

With reference to your No. 7242, of the 20th instant, enclosing copy of your letter to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department, I have the honour to state that I concur generally with the opinions which you express.

With regard to the statement that malaria is due to a specific cause I agree, but I am not satisfied with the proofs hitherto put forward that the bodies found in the blood, and which Laveran and other observers state are living organisms, have any causal relation to the disease. satisfied with the proofs hitherto put forward that the bodies found in the blood, and which Laveran and other observers state are living organisms, have, any causal relation to the disease, or more probably group of diseases, to which we give the name malaria. This is, however, a point of no value in connection with the important question of the relationship between malaria and a water-logged soil. It is, I believe, proved by the experience of observers in all countries where malaria exists that excessive moisture, especially when the water is stagnant, leads to the development of a virulent type of malarial fever. The instances mentioned by you in paragraph 10 could, if necessary, be multiplied by examples taken from every tropical and sub-tropical part of the world. But malaria is not the only disease connected with a water-logged soil. Dysentery and diarrhoea are also favoured by this condition. Although a water-logged soil. Dysentery and diarrhoea are also favoured by this condition. Although many observers deny the direct causal relationship between excessive soil moisture and these diseases, all are agreed that a wet soil by determining sudden and great variations in the temperature of the atmosphere favours their development. These two diseases are very prevalent in the water-logged districts of Bengal, and not only lead to a large mortality, but also to much chaonic uphonth. also to much chronic unhealth.

I altogether agree with your remarks in paragraph 23. I would only add that where the question arises of chocsing between drainage and a water-supply, I would certainly give the preference to the drainage, for I hold that a comprehensive system of drainge by preventing the accumulation of stagnant water will necessarily improve the dranking supply of the district,

Surgeon-Captain A. Leahy, M.D., Civil Surgeon, 24-Parganas, Alipore.

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of a copy of your memorandum on the Sanitary Drainage Bill, forwarded to this office with your No. 7240, dated Calcutta, 20th August 1894.

I now annex for your information a few remarks I have taken the liberty of making in the form of a note.

It is easier for me to embody the few remarks I have to make into the form of a note. I think the memorandum puts the medical opinion regarding the views which have been advanced against the Sanitary Drainage Bill in clear and concise language which leaves little to be desired. In paragraph 7 Surgeon-Colonel Harvey carefully explains the differences which exist between primary and secondary causes, and shows how the want of carefully diswhich exist between primary and secondary causes, and shows now the want of carefully discriminating between these two classes of causes must lead to errors in judgment. I entirely concur with the resume of the relation of the Plasmodium of Laveran and of the Roman school to the production of the malarial condition in the individual, as laid down by Surgeon-Colonel Harvey in paragraph 8 of his memorandum. I further concur generally with most of the other parts of the memorandum. Regarding the contention of the opponents of the Sanitary Drainage Bill that malarial fever is not due to obstructed drainage, but to poverty, Lentingly discourse and desire to place when record the following observation. I entirely disagree, and desire to place upon record the following observation. A conversa-tion I had with Professor D. D. Cunningham, F.R.S., recalled to my memory my experiences as a medical officer among the poor in Persia and Turkish Arabia. Let me take, for instance, the latter country and its inhabitants. There are perhaps few places in India where the people as a whole suffer more from poverty than do the Arabs, who constitute the nomad desert tribes. Yet a pretty extensive experience of them from a medical point of view has led me to the conclusion that malaria and malarial fevers are almost unknown among them. This singular examption from malaria and its effects connect be attributed to among them. This singular exemption from malaria and its effects cannot be attributed to among them. This singular exemption from malaria and its effects cannot be attributed to poverty, because to those who know the Arabs that mythical cause is only too plainly present among them. (Many of the Arab tribes exist for weeks and weeks on nothing but dates and water.) Secondly, it cannot be said to be owing to a pure water-supply, for the people take water with them for drinking purposes from each town or village, large or small, through which they may happen to pass in the course of their wandering, and in many of these places the water is polluted and impure to a degree. To what, then, is such immunity due? I believe it is due to the fact that the Arabs are not subjected to the effects of bad drainage, that they do not inhabit water-logged tracts of country. The desert in which they live is dry, the soil porous and so sparsely populated that drainage is neither possible nor necessary. that they do not inhabit water-logged tracts of country. The desert in which they live is dry, the soil porous and so sparsely populated that drainage is neither possible nor necessary. This immunity from the poisonous effects of malaria, however, in the case of the Arab is not due to any individual peculiarity; for when any of the tribes come into the city of Bagdad, and take up their residence in spots, the drainage of which is notoriously bad, they suffer from malarial fever in the same way as everyone else. My belief is that it is the absence of proper drainage, not the presence of poverty, which is the great cause of malarial fever. But I do not for one moment deny that poverty may act as a predisposing cause in the same manner in which anything that lowers vitality, and therefore lessens the resisting power of the individual, will act as a predisposing cause to malaria and many other diseases. The statement or belief that poverty per se can create malaria is illogical in the extreme, for all scientific research goes far towards proving the cause of malaria to be a specific germ, which will flourish and multiply under certain conditions, of which the most important is bad or indifferent drainage, but which will under more or less perfect sanitary conditions cease to Ave. The world-famed instance of the drainage of the Roman Campagna forcibly illustrates this fact. In conclusion I may refer to the unhealthy condition of the Barasat subdivision of this province, which I recently made the subject of a report to you. I said — "Barasat is notoriously unhealthy, and during the rainy season fever and dysentery almost decimate the population. The history of this unhealthiness is perhaps somewhat interesting. Several years ago many European officials and landed native gentry lived in Barasat, and the health of the place was in those times good. I am informed its unhealthiness began from the time that two large ditches or canal drains, which ran through Barasat, almost due north and south; were allowed to silt up and to become blocked. It is stated at the time when Barasat was healthy these drains were carefully kept patent, but that on the departure of the various officials no further care was exercised regarding them, and they became blocked. This defective drainage is believed to be the cause of the present unhealthy condition of Barasat, which has now become so notorious that no natives, except those who are compelled to live there, will stay in the place." If it was desirable I could quote other equally well-known instances where obstruction to the drainage of land has been followed by marked deterioration in the health of its inhabitants from the prevalence of malarial fever. In rural tracts in this province, where, owing to the large extent of country inhabited by great numbers of people, scattered over it in villages and collection of villages, it is probably quite impossible to provide them with water rendered pure by large and expensive systems of water-works. The majority of such people in the rural areas derive their supply of drinking water from wells and rivulets. In these cases bad

Surgeon-Captain H. W. Pilgrim, M.B., Offg. 1st Resident Surgeon, Presidency General Hospital.

I have the honour to state, in answer to your memorandum No. 7243, dated 20th August, forwarding a report of yours to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department, that I entirely concur with the opinions you express on the ætiology of malarial fevers. Moreover, I think that your exposition of the subject is now-a-days in accordance with the views held by nearly all medical men, both in this country and elsewhere. I do not think that any scientist would seriously state that poverty is the primary cause of malarial fevers. While fully believing that malarial fevers are due to a specific cause, I do not think that the researches referred to in your paper establish beyond all doubt that the Plasmodium of Laveran is the ætiological factor. Just in the same way as the specific cause has not, in my opinion, been exactly demonstrated, so too I do not think we know all the exact conditions of soil which are essential for the development of the organism or organisms. No doubt a damp and water-logged condition of the soil seems to be the most common feature of soils where malarial fevers most prevail; but malarial fevers also prevail in connection with soils in which the conditions are the very reverse of the above, viz. in chalky and granite soils that are dry and well drained. While recognising these difficulties, I think that the effect of drainage and cultivation in reducing the prevalence of malarial fevers is admittedly well marked, and we are therefore bound to advocate the drainage and cultivation of all lands, with a view to removing one of the most important secondary causes of malaria.

SURGEON-CAPTAIN C. E. SUNDER, M.B., B.S., Offg. Resident Surgeon, Eden Hospital.

With reference to your No. 7239, I have the honour to express my full concurrence with the remarks in your letter, dated 17th August 1894, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department. When writing about the heavy mortality from fevers in Purnea district I adduced poverty not as a cause of malarial fevers, but as conducing to a heavy death-rate from them. I still do not consider that Laveran's plasmodium malarise has been definitely proved to be the cause of malarial fevers. As the specific cause of a definite disease it seems to me to be in much the same position as one acquitted with a verdict of "not proven." But this has no bearing on the question of drainage and its effects on malarial diseases. In the light of history and, of observation it is undoubted that drainage has a beneficial effect on malarial areas. Whilst I was at Purnea it would have been premature to offer an opinion, but I am much mistaken if the branch line from Katihar station, Assem-Bihar State Railway, to Kishanganj, bounded as it is, will not tend to water-log the Kishanganj subdivision and so increase malarial fevers there.

The effect was partial last year. This is an example of the opposite effect to that aimed at in the Bill; but I think that, if my suspicion be justified, it will tend to strengthen the opinion on which the Bill is founded. opinion on which the Bill is founded.

Dr. W. J. SIMPSON, M.D., Health Officer to the Corporation of Calcutta.

With regard to the memorandum in connection with the Drainage Bill and the request that I should state may opinion thereon, I have the honour to inform you that I am not in a position to give an opinion. As far as I am able to judge regarding the utility or otherwise of a Drainage Bill for Bengal, I have seen no marshalling of facts indicating that such a Bill is absolutely necessary. I am inclined to think that investigation in the form of a Commission is first needed to ascertain whether the deaths which are attributed to fevers all over Bengal are in reality due to fever. With the present method of collecting death statistics and classification of the causes of death, it is quite impossible to have anything else than an appalling number of deaths attributed to fever because there is no other heading under which they can well be placed. But this in no way proves that the people of Bengal are dying from a disease which will be remedied by costly drainages. To my mind enquiry is needed, and after that people will be in a position to say whether a Drainage Bill of the character proposed is necessary, and if necessary, in what districts. character proposed is necessary, and if necessary, in what districts.

APPENDIX B.

Note on Malarial fever in Walcheren and in America (see paragraph 10).

"Holland is still the most malarious region of Northern Europe; although, from the progress of drainage and cultivation, improvements in the water-supply and in the dwellings of the middle and lower classes, and the general advance in social well-being, the health of the population has improved immensely during the present century" (p. 146).

"The nature of the causes of the disease may be inferred from the measures that have been found to improve the health of the country. Let us take as an example the town of Middleburg, the capital of Zeeland, situated in Walcheren. Here a steady diminution in the fever mortality has been going on throughout this century. Dr. de Man has constructed a table from the death registers of the Municipality, showing the number of deaths from various diseases for the ninety years 1792—1881. I extract the figures relating to intermittent fevers during that period: tent fevers during that period :-

"This great improvement is ascribed by de Man to the means taken to prevent the admixture of sea water with the fresh water of the canals and the alternate submersion and uncovering of the soil by the flux and reflux of the tide, and to the better drainage of the soil, the prevention of the impurities of the latrines passing into the canals, the better construction of houses, the paving of streets, and finally to the improved method of treating these fevers (Annales d'hygiene, pub., May 1883)" (p. 148) conditions. The leading points connected with this expedition, as narrated by Sir Gilbert Blane, are these:—The troops sailed from the Downs on the 28th July 1809, landed in Walcheren and North and South Beveland on the 31st July and the 1st August. Flushing was invested on the 1st August, and capitulated on the 15th of the same month. In the beginning of September the islands of North and South Beveland were evacuated, and that portion of the army which occupied them returned to England, leaving about 18,000 men to garrison Walcheren. More than one-half of these died, or were sent back to England on account of sickness, in the course of the three following months, and the island was finally evacuated on the 23rd of December 1809. The admissions into hospital between the 21st August and the 18th of November amounted to 26,846, including relapses, and the whole number of sick, including a small number of wounded, conveyed from thence to England between the 21st August and the 16th December, amounted to 12,863, and many instances occurred, in the case of those who returned to England apparently in health, in whom the endemic disease of Zeeland appeared after the slight fatigue of a march. The disease did not show itself among the soldiers during the first month of their residence in Holland." Geographical Pathology, by Andrew Davidson, M.D., F.R.C.P., Ed., 1892—(p. 150.)

"The remarkable increase which has occurred in the pernicious remittent fevers (febris remittens hæmorrhagica) within the last ten or twenty years in the Southern States of the Union is referred to by Norcom as follows:— Before the war the Southern States were in a Union is referred to by Norcom as follows:— Before the war the Southern States were in a high state of cultivation and the lands thoroughly drained; hence the malignant forms of the lands discount of the lands thoroughly drained warms. high state of cultivation and the lands thoroughly drained; hence the malignant forms of malarial disease as a general rule were not known, except in very low, badly-drained swamp lands. Within the past eight years (written in 1874), owing to so much land lying waste, defective drainage, and the general insanitary condition of the country, the malarial poison has acted with intense virulence, and caused the disease we are now considering.' The same opinion is expressed by Green, by observers in Georgia, and by others." Handbook of Geographical and Historical Pathology, by Dr. August Hirsch, 1883 (p. 275).

VI.—The Vice-President and Secretary shall be the head of the branch of the office of the Commissioner of Police which is set apart for the work of the Boiler Commission, and shall be responsible to the Commissioner of Police, or, if this officer is not a member of the Commission, to the Deputy Commissioner of Police for the good order and management of the office. When an appeal is heard by the Commission, notice shall be given to the appellant, and any representation that may be made by him will be heard in the presence of the Inspector. The Inspector will also be heard, and local inspection made, if necessary. The decision of the Commission will be given in writing, and such decision shall be final.

VIII.—When an inspection under the Act is completed, the Inspector making it shall prepare a declaration in the form No. 2 appended hereto, in column 11 of which the limit of the working pressure, in pounds per square inch, shall be clearly noted. The declaration shall then be sent to the owner.

IX.—The owner, manager or agent to whom a declaration is given under the last foregoing section shall, within fourteen days after the date of the receipt thereof, send the declaration, together with the amount of the fee mentioned at foot thereof, to the office of the Commissioner of Police.

Provided that, if the boiler is worked under a declaration for any period less than 30 days, the owner, manager, and agent shall nevertheless be liable to pay the same fee as if he had taken out a certificate.

- (b) An ordinary inspection made at any time when an Inspector has reason to believe that the boiler is being improperly worked, or that the person in charge is not competent.

XV.—The Inspector shall give one week's notice of every such intended thorough examination; and if after that notice the boilers are not empty, cool, clean, and ready for inspection on the date named, the Inspector shall prohibit the boilers from working, and shall report the case to the Commissioners. Further, if any request be made to remove fittings or settings, and such be not complied with, the Inspector shall in like manner stop the working of the boilers.

- (a) Provided that the inspection of boilers in the Raniganj, Giridih, and Gobindpur sub-divisions, in the district of the Sonthal Parganas, or in the Municipalities of Burdwan and Bhagalpur, shall be made during the months of November to May inclusive, and the Inspector shall give 14 days' notice of the day when he will make such inspection.
- (b) If any boiler needs inspection in the Raniganj, Giridih, and Gobindpur subdivisions, in the district of the Sonthal Parganas, or in the Municipalities of Burdwan and Bhagalpur, during the months of June to October inclusive, either as being a new boiler requiring a certificate, or as being a boiler which the owner for any other reason wishes to have inspected, it may, on the application of the owner, manager or agent, be inspected during that period.

XVI.—The Vice-President and Secretary shall submit to the Commissioners at each meeting the Inspectors' reports on the boilers inspected, in the form of a diary which shall be recorded in the office.

By order,

R. BELCHAMBERS,

Registrar.

It is ordered that the following Rules be read and passed as Rules of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, to take effect from the 12th day of August 1895:—

1. From and after the 12th day of August 1895, three General Cause Lists shall be kept in the Registrar's Office, to be called respectively "General List of Causes," "General List of Suits for Liquidated Claims," and "General List of Commercial Causes."

Every suit which is a commercial cause, that is to say, in which the claim arises out of the ordinary transactions of merchants and traders-amongst others, those relating to the construction of mercantile documents, exports or imports of merchandise, affreightment, insurance, banking and mercantile agency and mercantile usage-shall be entered in the General List of Commercial Causes.

3. On and after the 12th day of August 1895, when a plaint is presented, the Judge shall, on the application to that effect of the plaintiff, unless he be of opinion, on reading the plaint, that the suit does not properly belong to the class of commercial causes, as described in rule 2, direct that the suit shall be placed in the General List of Commercial Causes. When no such application is made, it shall be for the Judge, when a plaint is presented, to determine whether the case shall as a commercial cause be placed in such list.

4. Either party may apply, by summons, to the Judge in Chambers that any case entered in the General List of Causes, whether before or after the 12th day of August 1895, may be transferred to the General List of Commercial Causes.

Either party may apply, by summons, to the Judge in Chambers, that any case entered in the General List of Commercial Causes may be transferred to the General List of Causes, on the ground only that the case is not a commercial cause; provided that the plaintiff shall not be entitled to apply under this rule for the transfer of a case from the General List of Commercial Causes if such case was entered therein on his application.

Whenever two or more Courts shall sit concurrently in the exercise of Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction, two or, if there be three Courts, three peremptory lists of defended causes shall be prepared for every working day, and, unless otherwise ordered, one or, if there be three Courts, two of such lists shall be supplied with cases from the General List of Causes, and the other with cases from the General List of Suits for Liquidated Claims, and from the General List of Commercial Causes, and also, when necessary, from the General List of Causes.

7. When only one Court shall sit in the exercise of Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction, one peremptory list of defended causes shall be prepared for every working day, and shall be supplied on such day or days of each week as such Judge may order, first with cases from the General List of Suits for Liquidated Claims, next from the General List of Commercial Causes, and next with cases from the General List of Causes.

8. All applications in Chambers and all motions in cases placed in the General List of Commercial Causes will be heard by the Judges in whose list suits for liquidated claims and commercial causes shall for the time being be set down.

9. The Rules of the Court for regulating its procedure on the Original Side are hereby confirmed, except so far as they are inconsistent with these rules.

NOTIFICATION-No. 5000J.

The 10th September 1895.—In supersession of all previous orders on the subject, the following rules made by the Lieutenant-Governor under the power vested in him by section 4 of Act III (B.C.) of 1879, are hereby published for general information:—

Rules under Section 4, Act III (B.C.) of 1879, entitled an Act to provide for the Periodical Inspection of Steam-boilers and Prime-movers attached thereto in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta, and in Howrah, and since extended to all places in the districts of Hooghly, Howrah and the 24-Parganas, within a radius of 30 miles from Calcutta, to the Subdivisions of Raniganj, Giridih, and Gobindpur, to the District of the Sonthal Parganas, and to the Municipalities of Burdwan and Bhagalpur.

I.—The office of the Commissioners for the Inspection of Boilers shall be attached to the office of the Commissioner of Police.

II.—A Boiler Commission shall be appointed, to consist of the Commissioner of Police, or the Deputy Commissioner of Police, or both, and not less than three other Commissioners to be appointed by Government from time to time; and it shall meet periodically (at least once a month) to arrange for the transaction of business. One of the Commissioners shall be appointed President, and the Secretary shall be Vice-President and ex-officio a member of the Commission.

III.—It shall be the duty of the Commissioners at the monthly meetings—

- (1) To examine the diaries of the Inspectors and pass such orders thereon as may seem necessary.
- (2) To revoke or suspend any certificates under section 8.
- (3) To hear any appeals preferred by owners of boilers under section 9.
- (4) To keep a record of their proceedings in such form as may seem advisable, and submit a copy of the same to the Chief Secretary to Government.
- (5) To submit an annual budget to Government, showing the estimates, receipts, and disbursements of the Commission for the ensuing year.
- (6) To submit an annual report* reviewing the work done by the Boiler establishment during the financial year.
- (7) To prescribe the registers and accounts which are to be kept up by the Secretary and office.
- (8) To cause a statement of demands, collections, and outstandings to be prepared by the Secretary, and to scrutinise the same.
- (9) To check the statement of demands, comparing the arrear demand with the statement of outstandings for the previous month, and the current demand with a statement of work done, to be prepared by the Secretary from the diaries of the Inspectors.

(10) To compare the statement of collections with the cash-book, and the cash-book with the bank-book.

(11) To pass such orders as they may think fit for realising or otherwise disposing of the outstandings.

IV.—The Commissioners shall from time to time prepare and submit, for the sanction of Government, a schedule of the establishment and salaries they consider necessary for the purposes of this Act.

V.—After sanction of such schedule, the Commissioners shall have the power to appoint the Inspectors and clerks, &c., and they shall also have power to suspend or remove such officers.

V(a).—The Commissioners, other than the Vice-President and Secretary, shall receive a fee of Rs. 20 each for attending each general meeting of the Commission, the charge being debited to the "Steam-boiler Fund."

VI.—The Vice-President and Secretary shall be the head of the branch of the office of the Commissioner of Police which is set apart for the work of the Boiler Commission, and shall be responsible to the Commissioner of Police, or, if this officer is not a member of the Commission, to the Deputy Commissioner of Police for the good order and management of the office. He shall see that all notices are duly served, and that all fees are duly brought to account and paid into the Bank. He shall himself verify the balance at credit, shown in the accounts of the Commissioners' office, with the balance in the Bank. He shall refer all matters of importance for the orders of the President.

VII.—Notices under section 6, requiring owners or persons in charge of boilers to make alterations or additions, shall only be given by the Inspectors in writing, and when any such notice is given, the recommendation shall also be recorded in the diary. When an appeal is heard by the Commission, notice shall be given to the appellant, and any representation that may be made by him will be heard in the presence of the Inspector. The Inspector will also be heard, and local inspection made, if necessary. The decision of the Commission will be given in writing, and such decision shall be final.

VIII.—When an inspection under the Act is completed, the Inspector making it shall prepare a declaration in the form No. 2 appended hereto, in column 8 of which the limit of the working pressure, in pounds per square inch, shall be clearly noted. The declaration shall then be sent to the owner.

IX.—The owner, manager or agent to whom a declaration is given under the last foregoing section shall, within fourteen days after the date of the receipt thereof, send the declaration, together with the amount of the fee mentioned at foot thereof, to the office of the Commissioner of Police.

If he fails to do so, he shall forfeit a sum not exceeding five rupees for every day beyond that period, and the owner, manager or agent shall pay the sum so forfeited on the delivery of the certificate of inspection in addition to the fee payable for the certificate.

X.—Upon receipt of the declaration in the office of the Commissioner of Police, the Vice-President and Secretary shall prepare a certificate in the form prescribed by the Act. Such certificate shall be signed by the Vice-President and Secretary and shall be delivered to the owner, manager or agent of the steam-boilers inspected, on his paying the fees and other sums (if any) payable under rule IX on delivery of a certificate.

XI.—The declaration given shall have the effect of a certificate for 30 days from the date of inspection under rule VIII, but no longer; and unless the fees and other demands are paid, and the certificate taken out within that period, the owner, manager or agent shall be liable to all the penalties prescribed in the Act for using an uncertificated boiler. Provided that, if the boiler is worked under a declaration for any period less than 30 days, the owner, manager, and agent shall nevertheless be liable to pay the same fee as if he had taken out a certificate.

XII.—For every certificate of inspection granted under this Act, the owner, manager or agent of the steam-boiler inspected shall pay to the Commissioner of Police, or, when he is not a member of the Commission, to the Deputy Commissioner of Police, a fee calculated on the horse-power of the steam-boiler according to the scale laid down in rule XVII, and such additional fee in respect of the expense (if any) of the journey of the Inspector to the place where the boiler is situated, as is prescribed in rule XVIII.

XIII.—A certificate granted under this Act shall not be in force—

- (1) after the expiration of one year from the date thereof, or
- (2) after the expiration of the period, if less than one year, for which the boiler and machinery have been stated in the certificate to be sufficient, or
- (3) after notice has been given by the Commissioners to the owner, manager or agent of the steam-boiler to which the certificate relates that they have cancelled or suspended it.

XIV.—There shall be two kinds of inspection of boilers—

- (a) A thorough examination once every twelve months, inside and outside, to be made by one of the Inspectors in person, for which purpose the boilers must be empty, cool, and clean, and flues swept; and, if required by the Inspector, any parts or settings must be removed for a complete examination of the boiler in every part.
- (b) An ordinary inspection made at any time when an Inspector has reason to believe that the boiler is being improperly worked, or that the person in charge is not competent.

XV.—The Inspector shall give one week's notice of every such intended thorough examination; and if after that notice the boilers are not empty, cool, clean, and ready for inspection on the date named, the Inspector shall prohibit the boilers from working, and shall report the case to the Commissioners. Further, if any request be made to remove fittings or settings, and such be not complied with, the Inspector shall in like manner stop the working of the boilers.

- (a) Provided that the inspection of boilers in the Raniganj, Giridih, and Gobindpur subdivisions, in the district of the Sonthal Parganas, and in the Municipalities of Burdwan and Bhagalpur, shall be made during the months of November to May inclusive, and the Inspector shall give 14 days' notice of the day when he will make such inspection.
- (b) If any boiler needs inspection in the Raniganj, Giridih, or Gobindpur subdivision, in the district of the Sonthal Parganas, or in the Municipalities of Burdwan and Bhagalpur, during the months of June to October inclusive, either as being a new boiler requiring a certificate, or as being a boiler which the owner for any other reason wishes to have inspected, it may, on the application of the owner, manager or agent, be inspected during that period.

XVI.—The Vice-President and Secretary shall submit to the Commissioners at each meeting the Inspectors' reports on the boilers inspected, in the form of a diary which shall be recorded in the office.

XVII.—Fees for the delivery of certificates shall be charged according to the following scale:—
